Blacksmith Show

A few weeks ago, some of us attended the Richfield Threshere. Here we were made aware that on October 5th, a blacksmith show was take place. Well, this peaked my interest. Erv and I warmed up the Model T and drove to Richfield to see what they had to offer. At the grounds we found quite a few people looking over the wares and asking questions. There were traditional guys, who had coal fired hearths and others that had modern propane fired ones. Seems that most of the items that were made and sold, were hooks, rings, tongs etal. I was impressed with a guy who made scissors. Each blade had a hardened steel edge hammer welded to each leg of the scissors. I was told the hardest part of making these, was grinding the hollow on each leg so that the edges would pass each other and cut as they should.

Walking to another section, we found three Nash automobiles. A 1916, and 1930's and a 1940's. They all must have been driven to the (Go to P. 8)
